We have a deep understanding of the legal and business risks and opportunities faced by our clients across our global practice areas which operate at the heart of global trade and commerce:

■ AVIATION & AEROSPACE:

Abroad and unique perspective on the aviation and aerospace industry. The aviation and aerospace sectors have seen a tremendous amount of change in a relatively short space of time. It has never been more important to not only navigate existing and emerging risks, but to capitalise on the opportunities that are arising in this evolving and expanding area. As well as working on many of the precedent setting legal cases in the industry, many of our team have experience of working for government regulators, in-house for airlines, as aeronautical engineers, aircraft and power plant mechanics and pilots so we see these issues through our clients' eyes. We put that industry knowledge to work to get deals done, solve claims, manage and respond to investigations, navigate through hearings and manage incidents.

■ ENERGY, MARINE AND TRADE:

Supporting Energy, Marine and trade clients globally for over 20 years. We've been at the heart of global commerce for nearly a century. Our experience overseeing the evolution of the challenges our clients face has left us well-placed to navigate emerging risks and new complexities. Today, the energy, marine and trading sectors are becoming ever more interconnected and the associated risks more complex. However, these risks also provide new opportunities, and our lawyers across the globe have first-hand experience in helping clients explore these avenues. Through our active involvement in both traditional and innovative projects, our extensive experience advising on sector regulation, and our thought leadership on industry updates, our lawyers are perfectly placed to advise clients on issues and new prospects across the risk landscape.

Working for leading players in the industry for many years, we understand the market drivers influencing our clients' strategic decisions and the geopolitical and market factors that continue to exert pressure on the sector. That's where our deep industry knowledge comes in. Because we see these issues differently, our client focused energy, marine and trade specialists are present across our global offices and recognize the risks across each of these sectors, and how they interact. Crucially, we provide sharp insights on a complex and fast changing market, and through our interconnected global approach, we offer rapid access to on the ground experts wherever you operate.

■ CORPORATE AND ADVISORY:

Global specialists working in the partnership to navigate the complexities of risk management. Corporate risk navigation involves identifying, assessing, and managing risks that businesses face, and we are recognized leaders and navigators of these commercial Risks across our Corporate & Advisory services, particularly when navigating complex cross-jurisdictional issues for our clients.

We are not your typical corporate advisors, as sector specialists we provide wide ranging and detailed advice on Corporate & Advisory matters to clients operating in our key sectors in mature and emerging markets across the globe. Connecting them with commercial, pragmatic, and technical excellence in corporate, employment, finance, IP, IT, commercial legal matters, as well as tax. Our unique understanding for your business stems from over a century of advising businesses on emerging and current risks in our preferred sectors and has been translated in risk hedging on establishment, transactions, employment work and commercial as well as IT arrangements as we staff teams with sector experts of all practice groups from the outset.

■ DISPUTE RESOLUTION:

We are adept at managing business critical and complex litigation, arbitration and all forms of ADR and, as one of the largest disputes firms in the world, we understand the complexity of managing disputes and navigating risk. A comprehensive and unparalleled perspective on dispute resolution.

Contentious processes are a perennial risk of doing business, anywhere in the world, whether pursuing or defending a litigious action, or seeking to resolve matters through alternative dispute resolution such as, arbitration, mediation, and negotiation. As one of the largest disputes firms in the world, we can handle any continuous matter which may face a business and we have a proven understanding of the challenges, risks and opportunities that come from successfully navigating these often complex, multi-jurisdictional and high-value situations.

As one of the largest disputes firms in the world, both in terms of size and volume of contentious cases, our team of experts understand the diverse and complex risks and challenges associated with dispute resolution at all levels of business. Our practice covers litigation, commercial and investor-state arbitration and all forms of alternative dispute resolution, comprising litigators and partners who are arbitration specialists. Through our interconnected global approach, we offer rapid access to expertise in the jurisdictions in which you operate. We can help you navigate any risks, and futureproof your business, wherever you are in the world.

■ INSURANCE:

No one handles insurance risk like we do

We've been at the heart of global commerce for nearly a century, helping the insurance market navigate an ever-changing risk landscape. Today, the risks that insurers and their insureds face are becoming ever more interconnected and complex wherever they operate around the world. Whether that's driven by the digital revolution, geopolitical tension and uncertainty, the existential threats posed by climate change or the ever increasing legal and regulatory risks faced by organizations and their directors and officers, the world is increasingly unpredictable and volatile.

Our global teams use their deep insurance sector knowledge and commercial understanding to advise on issues such as dispute resolution, multi-jurisdictional litigation, coverage issues, contentious regulatory proceedings, policy wording issues, product development, corporate and commercial services, and recoveries.

From the smallest claim to the most complex risk, our in-depth, on-the-ground knowledge is supported by a truly interconnected global approach. This combination of local insight and global network allows us to offer rapid access to expertise wherever you operate. We can help you navigate these risks and futureproof your business.

■ PROJECTS AND CONSTRUCTIONS:

H4S International has a world-renowned projects & construction practice that provides solutions to public and private clients across the globe. We offer a rounded, client-centric legal advice perspective and our expertise encompasses the full range of projects & construction services within the construction industry.

Our transactional team advises on critical and complex infrastructure projects with significant capabilities throughout the project lifecycle, dealing with disputes, encompassing drafting and negotiating contract documents, dealing with construction litigation and providing project delivery support.
